(54) Support device for information panels

(57) Support device (10) for information panels (11) comprising a bearing structure (13) provided with an external wall (15) on which the information panels (11) are positioned, and clamping means (16) associated with the external wall (15) to keep the information panels (11) in a determinate display condition. The clamping means (16) comprises at least a first part (17) fixed with respect to the external wall (15), and a second part (19) movable with respect to the external wall (15) and associated with the first part (17) by elastic means (20), so as to be able to be moved between a first clamping position in which it contacts the information panel (11) and keeps it pressed against the external wall (15), and a second position of non-interference in which the second part (19) does not contact the information panel (11), allowing it to be removed from the external wall (15).
